Dissemination

VS

Exploitation

The public disclosure of the results by appropriate means, other than resulting from protecting or exploiting the results, including by scientific publications in any medium.

The use of results in further research and innovation activities, including commercial exploitation such as developing, creating, manufacturing and marketing a product or process, creating and providing a service, or in standardisation activities.

Proposal stage

Start of the project

During the project

After the project

Communication: strategic and targeted information and promotion of the project to a multitude of audiences, including the media and the public, and possibly engaging in a two-way exchange.

Key takeaways and tips for effective D&E

- D&E is a legal obligation - not a “tick-the-box” activity
- D&E starts with describing the impact of your proposal at application stage
- Think of D&E ahead of the results of the project, not at the end of it
- Develop a clear, adaptive D&E strategy aligned with project goals
- Tailor your approach: use formats and channels suited to your audience (e.g., webinars for experts, infographics for the public, policy briefs for decision-makers)
- Results can be both intangible (i.e. patents) or tangible (i.e. prototype)
- Reach out to local and national partners to support your D&E (i.e. TTOs, NCPs).

Dissemination and Exploitation in practice

Thank you!
